

A close-up photograph of a car seat's electrical connector. The connector is a grey plastic housing with two internal terminals: a pink one on the left and an orange one on the right. The seat is upholstered in grey fabric, and a black leather-like armrest is visible on the left. The background shows the metal frame of the seat and a concrete floor.

Driver side
Old seat